

WESTMINSTER SCHOOL CATECHISM

Brief History of the Westminster Confession of Faith and Catechisms

Scotland embraced more fully the Reformed Faith than did England in the 1500's. Two of the chief leaders in Scotland were John Knox and Andrew Melville. In 1560, the Church of Scotland held its first General Assembly. In 1567, this church was recognized by an act of the Scottish Parliament. The Scottish Presbyterian Church enjoyed a good degree of independence and integrity until after King James took the throne of England.¹

In defense of liberty and in standing against tyranny two important documents were produced – the National Covenant in 1638 and the Solemn League and Covenant between the kingdoms of England and Scotland in 1643.

According to A. A. Hodge, the Reformation in England had two parts. The first part of Reformation was based on the rediscovery of God's Word. This began with the Greek New Testament published in Oxford in 1517 and the English Translation of the NT by William Tyndale in 1526. The Lord used several important men to work for other aspects of Reformation including – Thomas Cranmer, Nicholas Ridley, John Hooper, Hugh Latimer, and John Jewell.

The other aspect of Reformation in England was the political and ecclesiastical revolution of Henry VIII which was confirmed by his daughter Queen Elizabeth.

In 1534, Henry VIII broke from Roman control and declared that he was the only Supreme Head in Earth of the Church of England. This break from Rome was certainly a good thing but it was not certainly the end of difficulty for those working for true Reformation in England. In 1563 after the death of Henry and during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, the 39 Articles were written which gave the Church of England a more solid foundation in terms of the Reformation, but the Church of England still held many Roman Catholic practices including rule by bishops and archbishops and the head of the Church of England was still the reigning monarch.

Queen Elizabeth died in 1603 and was followed by King James. He was already King James VI of Scotland but was King James I of England and Scotland from 1603 until his death in 1625. It was during his reign that the Authorized Version was produced in 1611 in part because King James did not like the Geneva Bible, especially some of the study notes in this Bible which spoke against the tyranny of kings.

King James was followed by Charles I who reigned from 1625 until his beheading in 1649.

Three major causes led to the writing of the Westminster Confession of Faith and other related documents. The first was the divine right of kings and their attempted control of the church. Second was the rule of the church by bishops and archbishops. The third was the desire for the kingdoms of Ireland, Scotland, and England to be united in a civil league and ecclesiastical covenant for the purposes of unity and uniformity.²

² These three reasons argued by Greg Price in a sermon on the history of the Westminster Confession of Faith.

During the years 1642-1651 there were three civil wars fought in England between those who supported the reigning king and those loyal to the Parliament in England. The Westminster Confession of Faith was produced in a time of civil war. It is estimated that there was a greater percentage loss of the population in England and Scotland and certainly Ireland than was lost in our own Civil War.³

On June 12, 1643, the Parliament of England passed an act calling for an assembly of divines to better reform the government and worship of the Church of England. Invitations were sent to theologians in England, Scotland, other parts of Europe, and even America. No Americans were part of the assembly because of various political issues involving the civil war in England.

151 men in total were part of the assembly – 10 lords, 20 commoners, and 121 ministers. Not all 151 men were present on each day of meeting which is not surprising because over a period of 5 years, 6 months, and 22 days, there were 1,163 sessions. Sixty men were in attendance for the first session on July 1, 1643. It is said that the average attendance was between 60-80. They first met in the Abbey Church, Westminster in Henry VII's chapel, hence the name Westminster is part of the name of the confession and catechisms.

The men who met were divided into three main groups and their first work was to revise the 39 Articles of the Church of England.

This, they determined, was not possible and so they worked for a total replacement of the 39 Articles. Before they produced anything new, they first agreed to the Solemn League and Covenant first produced in Scotland in 1643. Then in 1644, they produced a Form of Presbyterian Church Government. In 1644, they also produced the Directory for the Public Worship of God. Then in 1647 they finally produced the Confession of Faith. This was first submitted near the end of 1646, but Parliament wanted Scripture proofs to be included. The Shorter Catechism was produced in 1647 and finally the Larger Catechism in 1648. Most the members of the committee went to their own homes after the catechisms were completed but some stayed in London to help in the examination of ministers who were either being ordained or who were placed into churches without an acting minister.

In 1729, the American Presbyterian Church adopted the Confession of Faith and Larger and Shorter Catechisms. The Confession was slightly modified in about 4 places in 1787 by the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

¹⁴“You are the light of the world.

A city that is set on a hill cannot be hidden.

¹⁵Nor do they light a lamp and put it under a basket,
but on a lampstand,
and it gives light to all who are in the house.

that they may see your good works and glorify your Father in heaven.

Q. 90. How is the word to be read and heard, that it may become effectual to salvation?

A. That the word may become effectual to salvation, we must attend thereunto with diligence, preparation and prayer; receive it with faith and love, lay it up in our hearts, and practice it in our lives.

WEEK 45: 11.06.22 – 11.12.22

Q. 91. How do the sacraments become effectual means of salvation?

Q. 95. To whom is baptism to be administered?

A. Baptism is not to be administered to any that are out of the visible church, till they profess their faith in Christ, and obedience to him; but the infants of such as are members of the visible church are to be baptized.

Q. 96. What is the Lord's supper?

A. The Lord's supper is a sacrament, wherein, by giving and receiving bread and wine according to Christ's appointment, his death is showed forth; and the worthy receivers are, not after a corporal and carnal manner, but by faith, made partakers of his body and blood, with all his benefits, to their spiritual nourishment and growth in grace.

Q. 97. What is required to the worthy receiving of the Lord's supper?

A. It is required of them that would worthily partake of the Lord's supper, that they examine themselves of their knowledge to discern the Lord's body, of their faith to feed upon him, of their repentance, love, and new obedience; lest, coming unworthily, they eat and drink judgment to themselves.

DECEMBER: Revelation 21:3-4

Q. 100. What doth the preface of the Lord’s prayer teach us?

Q. 101. What do we pray for in the first petition?

A. In the first petition, which is, Hallowed be thy name, we pray that God would enable us and others to glorify him in all that whereby he maketh himself known; and that he would dispose all things to his own glory.

Q. 106. What do we pray for in the sixth petition?

A. In the sixth petition, which is, And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil, we pray that God would either keep us from being tempted to sin, or support and deliver us when we are tempted.

Q. 107. What doth the conclusion of the Lord's prayer teach us?

A. The conclusion of the Lord's prayer, which is, For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever, Amen, teacheth us to take our encouragement in prayer from God only, and in our prayers to praise him, ascribing kingdom, power and glory to him. And in testimony of our desire, and assurance to be heard, we say, Amen.

The Catechism Study for Classes (left) was written while the author was pastor of one of the Reformed Churches of New Zealand.

The method of study was as follows: Students were expected to read each lesson carefully before class, and to write out their answers to the questions. Then, at the time of the week when the class met, these answers were recited and discussed. When a wrong or inadequate answer was given, the author did not immediately issue a definitive correction. Rather, members of the class were encouraged to evaluate, criticize, and attempt to formulate the right answer. In this way they learned to think out the implications of the doctrine being studied. The goal was to lead the class through discussion to a sharp discrimination between true and untrue, adequate, and inadequate answers.

If there is any value in this study, the 'catechism kids' of the Mangere Reformed Church of Auckland deserve much of the credit. They were a never-failing encouragement to the author as we worked through these lessons together. Each lesson includes questions at each chapter's end for review and discussion. This book is available in the Book Room at the Church of Christian Liberty for $8.00.

The Shorter Catechism with Scripture Proofs

In the opinion of B.B. Warfield, the Westminster divines left to posterity not only the most thoroughly thought-out statement ever penned of the elements of evangelical religion but also one which breathes the finest fragrance of spiritual religion. Their most influential work, The Shorter Catechism, though more than 350 year old, is undoubtedly still one of the best introductions to the key doctrines of the Christian faith.
